Jamboree Hockey Game Provides Fun -- Funds for Scouts and Guides

Old-Time Players Surprise Fans With Agility on Skates, Despite Thrills and Spills

The hockey game on Saturday evening in aid of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides provoked a great deal of laughter, and also plenty of applause for the sportsmanship of the players, many of whom hadn't skated for five, ten or even fifteen years. With Dr. Borden in one goal, and Mayor Pattinson at the opposite end, with star players of other days, such as Arthur and Frank Graham, Bob Barnes, Norman MacAuley, Jack Devine, Jack Brennan, Frank Craggan, Bill Hoggan, Sid Short, W. L. Rippon, Ed. Bayman, Ed. Hoggan, Rev. Roy Taylor, and others too numerous to remember, the brand of hockey played was surprising, and the score was 4-3 in favor of the "Billies."

Former girl stars of the "Sham-rock" in the persons of Mae Bell and Mrs. Frank Valgrava (Pat Fraser) with Joy Ferguson, Mrs. Hoffman, Jean McLeod, Marjorie Grant, of Drumheller, Marjorie and Umie Johnson, played at intervals.

First Aid attendants were Kathleen Milley and Dora Burrows, with Mrs. Jack Devine as the doctor with the mysterious little black bag. The only "casualty" was Maurice Cooke, who was dragged off the ice, and decided it was easier to walk than be bumped around on a stretcher.

The winning team was presented with a "cup" and Dr. Borden as goal-keeper received it with a few appropriate words. Mayor Pattinson spoke a few words of appreciation to the players and the public for their support of the Jamboree fund.

Mrs. Walter Purvis was referee, and Miss Edith Halsom Judge of play, and they did not hesitate to hand out penalties when required to players who were guilty of tripping and bumping, said players meekly submitting without giving any back-talk, realizing that this was a case where woman would have the last word, as always. Organizers of the game were W. S. Purvis and Maurice Cooke, and J. M. Allan was the financial "wizard" of the undertaking.

Players and officials are given a hearty vote of thanks through The Journal by the Guides and Scouts executives.

The announcement was made on Monday. Though sorry to hear of the contemplated departure of Mr. and Mrs. McLeod and family, their friends congratulate Mr. McLeod on his new appointment. In recent years he has been a member of the hockey club executive, and also of the Community hall committee representing the two coal companies, International and McGillivray.

Boy Scout and Girl Guide Notes

Coleman Troops

The Boy Scouts thank all who supported them on "Apple Day" (last Saturday) when they netted over $28 towards the Jamboree fund. Acting Scout Master Llewellyn asked The Journal to express their appreciation.

Several Scouts and Girl Guides from Michel-Natal intend journeying to the Jamboree by the special train which will leave Coleman at 9 a.m. on Easter Monday. Tickets are available at The Journal office, or from Mrs. Borden, at $3.40 for the round trip, and those under 12 years of age may travel at half price. Tickets should be purchased before April 1, as the Calgary committee must have returns to guarantee the special trains being run from various districts. Mrs. Borden also has admission tickets for the Jamboree, at 25c. Scouts and Guides are not required to pay admission.

Those who have the cash to pay now for tickets are requested to do so, as the central committee must know how many will be leaving on the train well in advance. The reason for this is they have to make a heavy guarantee in order to secure special trains at the low fares quoted, which is less than a cent a mile rate.

Special trains will also be run from Medicine Hat, Raymond and Hanna, to take Scouts, Guides and parents and others desiring to attend.

BISHOP SHERMAN CONFIRMED CANDIDATES AT ST. ALBAN'S

Rt. Rev. L. Ralph Sherman, D.D., Bishop of Calgary, confirmed the following candidates at St. Alban's church on Sunday morning, Rev. A. S. Partington, rector, presenting them: Herbert McMullen, Susan Wilson, Mrs. R. Lloyd, Olive Brown, Helen Gate, Peggy Hoyle, Lillian Martland and Alma Wilson.

His address to the candidates and the congregation was based on the Gospel for the third Sunday in Lent—St. Luke, chapter 11, verse 14, pointing out that those who were not for Christ and His church were against him, there being no such thing as neutrality in the life of Christian people.

ELKS DANCE GRAND SUCCESS

The dance held by Coleman Lodge B.P.O.E. on March 18 was one of the social highlights of the season. The hall had been transformed into a fairyland with beautifully arranged decorations, with an illuminated clock placed above the stage. Novelties and balloons added to the gaiety of the dance, and Beddington's orchestra played a lively program till almost 3 a.m. The committee worked with a will, making the dance an outstanding success.

Minerva Chapter O.E.S. was represented by 18 members at a meeting of Vimy Chapter on March 18, when Mrs. Logie, worthy grand matron of the Grand Lodge of Alberta, paid her official visit. She visited Minerva Chapter on March 21, when there was a large attendance of the membership to greet her.

Mr. Brocklehurst, well known to a number of Coleman people, recently died in Calgary from cancer. His son, who was employed in McGillivray Co. offices, died there in 1928, and since then Mr. and Mrs. Brocklehurst made frequent visits to Coleman. Heartfelt sympathy is expressed by many friends and acquaintances with Mrs. Brocklehurst in her bereavement.

Readers of The Journal whose subscriptions are due are asked to make a special effort to pay promptly. It takes a considerable sum to pay the weekly wages, overhead costs and paper bills, besides the various sundry expenses incurred in turning out this family journal, which is welcomed far and wide every Thursday. An additional outlay incurred in installing a new newspaper press to give better service makes it necessary that we collect all monies due, therefore those owing would help the publisher very materially by paying NOW.

MISCELLANEOUS

STILL THEY COME

Renewal subscription was received this week from George G. Cooke, M. P. For many years Mr. Cooke has been a subscriber to The Journal, for it keeps him posted on local affairs, even when he is down east. It may interest people to know that copies of The Journal, as well as other weekly newspapers, go every week to the House of Commons Reading room and the provincial legislative assembly library, these being on the paid-up subscribers list.

The First Catholic Slovak Jednota will hold a dance in the Italian hall on Easter Monday, April 22, for which posters have been issued at The Journal office. This is the first dance the society has held in three years and will be a popular holiday event.

Is Democracy A Failure?

Articles appearing in this column from week to week have, over a considerable period of time, had two main objectives—to convey information and to provoke constructive thought on the part of the reader. At the same time an earnest endeavor has been made to refrain from discussion of questions which are the subject of partisan political controversy or of sharp differences of opinion arising out of racial or religious views. In the present disturbed state of the world, when practically every financial, economic and social question has become part and parcel of some political creed it is no easy matter for any writer, unless he confines himself to meaningless platitudes, not to appear to take sides and express views which others may interpret as somewhat partisan in character one way or another. Notwithstanding this difficulty an honest effort has been made in this column to steer clear of partisanship while at the same time in discussing matters of public interest to give some point and value to these articles.

The writer is firmly convinced that what is needed at all times, and never more so than at present, is adherence to well grounded sound principles, the dissemination of accurate information, and clear constructive thinking on the part of each individual citizen. A demagogue may be clever and interesting and able to sway a mob, but he is not a safe and constructive leader and a mob is a dangerous thing.

This week we propose to submit a few questions, but do not intend to answer them. Rather our object is to have the reader answer them for himself or herself, in other words, do their own thinking.

General Hugh S. Johnson, until recently director of Roosevelt's N.R.A. programme, stated the other day that "democracy is the best government in the world for peace and prosperity, but it is the worst government in the world for a great war or a great crisis." Is this true, and if it is true what does such a statement or situation imply? Does it mean that democracy as a system of government is right, but that the people who constitute the democracy, and therefore the government, are unreliable and cannot be trusted? Is it the system or the people who go wrong? Does it mean that when things are proceeding smoothly and the people have a minimum of worries, they are careless, thoughtless, indifferent? Does it mean that when a crisis develops these same people become panic stricken, emotional and reckless, ready to act precipitately without taking thought of the ultimate consequences of their action?

Does General Johnson's statement, if true, imply that the nations of the world should abandon democracy as a system of government and revert to more autocratic and dictatorial forms of government, thereby relinquishing the political freedom which is now theirs and entrusting to such more autocratic governments full control at all times, in peace and prosperity as well as in times of war, emergency and crisis?

If democracy is not to be abandoned, and we are not to accept Communism, Fascism, Socialism, or other forms of government which involve abandonment of existing democratic political rights and freedom, how is democracy to be maintained in the world at times of crisis? Is it to be thrown into the discard in times of trouble and emergency and resurrected and made to function efficiently the moment the crisis passes?

It will be admitted that the concept of democracy has been termed the Industrial Revolution of the Nineteenth Century, human society was completely reorganized. The worker has risen from his old feudal state and there has been an extraordinary rise in wage levels and living standards. With this rise of the economic status of the worker there has been an even more pronounced rise in his social and political status. Public schools, newspapers, labor unions, and the influence of wage-earners as consumers have established the political power of the workers and primary producers. The universal ballot, without property or educational qualification, have given control of government to the masses of the people.

Commenting on this development a professor of economics in one of the great American universities has written: "Here lies the danger of injury to progress. This power has been obtained, naturally enough, in advance of economic knowledge. Visionary theorists and self-seeking politicians may guide the masses along a perilous path. Nobody wants to throw back this tide of democracy. Nobody can. But it needs to learn self-control and to gain understanding. It has neither at present."

Is this professor of economics right? Is democracy endangered by lack of self-control and understanding on the part of those very people who have the most to lose and suffer if democracy is lost to the world, and who have the most to gain and enjoy if democracy is maintained and made to function in times of emergency and crisis as well as in times of peace and prosperity? In a word, are our present political rights and power under democracy to be unthinkingly utilized in a time of stress and emergency to overthrow and destroy democracy itself? Are people going to give up the truth of General Johnson's observation that democracy is not a safe system in times of crisis?

How can people be taught self-control in times of emergency? How can the tendency to panic be overcome? How can understanding be given to the masses so that they will refrain from panic and exercise self-control and thus overcome the crisis and prevent the taking of disastrous action? How, when there are always demagogues, agitators, self-seekers whether in politics or other spheres, ever ready to inflame and mislead the masses, are these masses of voters who to-day control all governments, going to be educated to think for themselves, free from the influence of propaganda, psychology, and exercise self-control through the obtaining of sound knowledge and an understanding of basic irrefutable principles?

Is the task too great for democracy, that is, for mankind itself? Or must mankind revert to the state from which it has struggled upward through the centuries and make confession that, being incapable of self-government in the mass, there is only one thing to do and that is to repose its trust and place the power which the masses now possess in the hands of a few to exercise full power, direction and control over them? Finally, if this is done, will the masses remain content to have it so, or will the old struggle of man be recommenced all over again?

This is the acute problem facing the world to-day? Democracy itself must and will answer it. Will that answer be for its own preservation, or will it be for self-destruction?

Bells Rang Electrically

Italian Villagers Looked For Miracle Until Mystery Solved

When they heard the bells of the little church of Santa San Pietro ringing for a number of days and nights, apparently by themselves, the villagers of Lucca, Italy, thought it portended a miracle. The clappers of the bells were tied and the parish priest locked the bell tower and put the key in his pocket. But still the bells went on ringing. Finally the local electrician discovered the bells were being rung electrically as the overhead wire for the tramway line between Lucca and Magliano had come into contact with the belfry. Now the villagers are able to sleep again.

DOUBLED UP WITH RHEUMATISM

Could Not Wash Himself Nor Brush His Hair

So had his rheumatism that his friends declared he would never work again. Although he is 70 years old, he proved they were wrong. Read what he says:—

"I am seventy years of age. Last Christmas I was completely doubled up with rheumatism. I could not brush my hair nor wash myself. People said I should never work any more. I am working harder than a young man to-day. Thanks, many thanks, to Kruschen Salts. I have recommended them to many. I could not get in or out of bed myself, nor sit up. But see me work now—12 hours a day sometimes. Kruschen Salts have done it."—G. J.

Rheumatic conditions are the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channel. In addition, there are still other salts in Kruschen which prevent food fermentation in the intestines, and thereby check the further accumulation, not only of uric acid, but of other body poisons which undermine the health.

Chauffeur, Cook, And Maid Inherit Mansion Of Mistress

A chauffeur and his wife, a cook and an "upstairs girl" are masters and mistresses of an estate at Negley, Mass., in which a few days ago they were servants.

The will of their late employer, Mrs. Jessie A. Goddard, 80, left them the stately mansion to do with as they saw fit.

Heirs to the estate were William Wilson, for 25 years Mrs. Goddard's chauffeur; his wife, Annie; Miss Margaret Macauley, cook; and Miss Jane Douglass, maid.

Other bequests, totalling $200,000, were distributed to friends, former servants, charities, churches and distant relatives.

SWears To TRUTH OF STATEMENT

Mr. Sam Sanone, 44 Front Street, Toronto, tells in a sworn statement how Fruit-A-Tives brought lasting relief after he had suffered badly from indigestion. He wants others suffering to be helped as he was. That is why he gives a statement of his experience.

And in order that everyone may be convinced of its absolute truth Mr. Sanone made his statement under oath before a notary. In part, it reads: "For a long time I suffered badly from indigestion. I tried everything but I continued to get worse. A friend of mine recommended Fruit-A-Tives. After taking them, it was not long before I was entirely well and could eat anything without pain or after effects."

Copy of Mr. Sanone's complete sworn statement will be sent on request. Write to: Fruit-A-Tives, Limited, Oshawa, Canada. FRUIT-A-TIVES—25c and 50c Every Where.

Cheerful Factors

Moderate Improvement Shown Is Expected To Continue

"The moderate improvement reported a year ago may be expected to continue," the fourth annual "Farm Outlook for Saskatchewan" prepared by Dr. William Allen and Professor E. C. Hope of the department of farm management of the University of Saskatchewan predicted. What doubtful but more likely to rise than decline, some improvement over last year in prices for beef cattle, dairy cows and butter, rising prices for sheep and work horses, and a rise in wool towards the end of the year, are some of the cheerful factors indicated.

Prof. John James Rickard MacLeod, 58, co-discoverer of insulin, who spent a number of years teaching at the University of Toronto and the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, died recently at Aberdeen, Scotland.

With Sir Frederick Banting of the University of Toronto, Prof. MacLeod was awarded the Nobel prize in medicine for the insulin achievement in 1923.

Prof. MacLeod returned to Aberdeen seven years ago to take the chair of physiology at Aberdeen University.

Lives of thousands were saved by the insulin treatment for diabetes which Sir Frederick, Professor MacLeod and Dr. Charles H. Best developed.

Prof. MacLeod was born at Cluny, near Dunkeld, Scotland, son of Robert MacLeod, and was educated at the Aberdeen Grammar school, and at Marischal College, Aberdeen.

After a short period of post-graduate study in London and on the continent, he came to the United States. At the age of 27 he was appointed professor of physiology at the Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

Using Sun For Cooking

Solar Heat Collector Shown At Meeting Of Scientists

A device for making the sun do a part of man's work was shown to the American Association for the Advancement of Science at the beginning of its winter meeting in Pittsburgh. It is a solar heat collector which will turn on a scale of degrees Fahrenheit. The inventor is the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, Dr. C. G. Abbot. The device can be used for ordinary cooking purposes. Dr. Abbot has been using an Mott-Wilson (California) for the generation of steam for power. It is hoped that ultimately it can be made to drive large steam engines at a practicable cost. The apparatus employs a number of small mirrors fixed at right angles to the earth's axis and mounted on a platform which will turn on a scale parallel to the earth's axis. There are a number of tubes filled with black oil and protected from loss of heat by double vacuum jackets. These transmit the collected heat to a reservoir of oil, and into this reservoir ovens are inserted for cooking purposes or a tubular boiler for generating steam.

Handles Letters Quickly

Robot Sorter Has Been Tested At Brighton, England

In future, most letter-sorting may be entrusted to a machine capable of handling letters three times as quickly as by hand. This robot sorter, which has been tried out at Brighton, is like a huge typewriter. Letters pass into it on a running belt. When the practised eye of the operator sees Leeds, for instance, he presses the Leeds key, when Glasgow, the Glasgow key, and these letters automatically fall into their proper receptacles. It is to be hoped, for the peace of mind of the operator, that there is a receptacle for the doubtful class which requires a handwriting expert.

Royalty Needs A Passport

Only King And Queen Exempt From Carrying One

It is not generally known that during his visits to the Continent, the Prince of Wales carries a passport just like any other traveller. But so well known is His Royal Highness across the Channel that rarely is he asked to produce it. Having regard to the number of miles he has travelled with it, since it was first issued to him, it is probably been viewed less than any other of similar age. The only members of our Royal Family who are exempt from carrying a passport are the King and Queen, and of the others, the Duke of Connaught has made more frequent use of his than any other British royalty. This he uses chiefly for his annual visit to his villa in the South of France, but, like the Prince, his Royal Highness is now so well known to all the officials with whom he is brought into contact during his journeys through France that it is but rarely that he is asked to submit it for inspection. Though all rules are exempt from the necessity of carrying passports, one who is still a sovereign de jure was recently held up for his. This was a few months ago in Switzerland, when King Alfonso was unrecognized by an official, who insisted upon detaining him until he could obtain complete evidence of his identity, which happened to be a matter of some little time, since he was in a district where he was comparatively unknown.

Farmers Leaving Area Smothered By Dust Storms In U. S.

Springfield, Colo. — Mountainous columns of powdered soil still smothered southeastern Colorado and nearby portions of Kansas and Oklahoma burying wheat fields and pasture lands, fences and farm machinery.

It was the 12th consecutive day of howling gales and blinding dust for residents of Baca and Powers counties in Colorado.

No longer do they find the storm a phenomenon. It has become a roaring menace to their existence, rapidly erasing the slight means of subsistence they have salvaged from four successive years of extreme drought.

An exodus of residents of the stricken farm areas has been started. Kenneth Welch, Baca county relief administrator, said at least 100 families in the past week have sought federal funds with which to seek refuge elsewhere.

The first state bank of Pritchett, centre of Baca county's once prosperous livestock raising district, closed its doors Friday, as a result of the storms.

Directors announced the bank was solvent and would pay out in full, but could not continue business in the face of drought and the ruin spread by the dust barrage.

"Dust pneumonia," caused by direct irritation of lungs, is no longer considered an immediate threat to lives by doctors of this area. However, they still regarded infection from soil particles as partly responsible for six recent deaths.

Because of some disagreement over the effects of the dust, the Colorado state board of health sent one of its representatives flying into the storm section in a national guard plane to obtain cultures at various altitudes.

Need Health Certificate

Bill Introduced In Alberta Legislature In Respect To Prospective Bridal Couples

Edmonton.—Bills of health will have to be produced by prospective bridal couples in this province before marriages can be performed, under a bill introduced in the legislature by Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health.

Last year a similar bill caused widespread interest and was finally withdrawn, as it was felt that the public was not sufficiently interested in an educational campaign has been carried on in the province during the year by those approving of such legislation and Mr. Hoadley expects it to receive a more favorable reception.

The minister said the Local Council of Women, women's institute, U.F.A., U.F.W.A. and the medical profession had approved of the proposed legislation.

Apples For Wheat

Paris. Plans were announced to exchange United States apples for French wheat. France has agreed to give the United States 2,000 tons increase in its apple and pear quota in return for an agreement to ship a large quantity of denatured wheat to the United States.

Fire Is Started In Connection With Revolt At Kingston Prison

Kingston, Ont.—An ominous 10-months' silence in Kingston penitentiary was broken when fire started—apparently simultaneously—in two work departments in the big prison and 50 convicts locked themselves in one of them with the flames.

Guards smashed down a steel door leading to the boot and clothing workshop and led the revolting prisoners to their cells as flames raged 150 to 50 feet away in the building where mail bags are manufactured. Prison officials refused to discuss the developments in any way.

Fire Chief James Armstrong of Kingston announced that damage by fire and water to the boot and clothing shop and to the mail-bag building would be heavy. The flames were believed to have started about 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Firemen left the penitentiary grounds at 8:30.

Riot In New York

Negroes Run Wild When Told Boy Killed For Stealing

New York.—Rioters raged through Harlem, largest negro settlement in United States, bringing injuries to at least 100, besides smashing store windows and looting them of their contents.

Seven hundred policemen drawn from all parts of Manhattan which includes Harlem, and from Brooklyn to the Bronx, broke up mob gatherings but could not prevent guerrilla outbreaks. About 100 prisoners were booked at one station.

Police officials charged agitators with inciting the negroes and whites of the area to violence by telling them employees of a store had killed a young negro who was caught stealing a pocketknife.

In reality, the store manager had turned the boy loose although he had bitten the two floor-walkers who caught him.

Not until 10 hours after the trouble began could the police find the boy to prove he was alive.

Rainy Season Expected

Government Entomologist Looks For End Of Drought In West

Ottawa.—"We expect a more or less rainy season in the west this year, and that the drought is over," declared R. Painter, entomologist in the department of agriculture, in an address here. He dealt with the ravages of grasshoppers in recent years in the west, and the method being taken to combat them.

Mr. Painter said two or three species of grasshoppers were responsible for the "outbreaks" which cause such distress and ruin crops. They were always the pests of semi-arid countries which had periodical drought conditions. But it was possible to kill 95 per cent of these insects by one application of "bait," consisting of bran, sawdust and poison.

During the year 1934 a total expenditure of $708,000 was involved in the three prairie provinces in the work of extermination, he said.

Price Spreads Inquiry

Total Cost Of Investigation Is Given As $35,450

Ottawa.—The total cost of the inquiry into price spreads and mass buying so far has been $35,450, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons.

The largest portion of this was consumed in the cost of auditing by private firms of chartered accountants the books of the companies investigated. This amounted to $184,161. Legal fees to committee and commission counsel aggregated $44,324, of which Norman Sommerville was paid $22,552 and his assistant, W. W. Parry, $11,772.

Special investigators employed by the commission were paid $24,995 altogether, this sum embracing also their services for the parliamentary committee last year. The cost of stenographic services was $13,954.

Regaining His Health

Expected Premier Bennett Will Return To House In Few Weeks

Ottawa.—Government supporters in the House of Commons and senate were given positive assurance by Sir George Perley that their party chief, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, had been given every reason to believe he would be back in his place in parliament within a few weeks.

So far as the best medical opinion could judge, the acting government leader told his colleagues, Mr. Bennett would be able to return to his parliamentary duties before prorogation and would be in condition to lead his party in the general election campaign. Mr. Bennett will be confined to bed for about another week, according to present progress, and will then seek recuperation at some health resort for about a fortnight.

Relief Distribution

329 Carloads Of Foodstuffs Sent To West By Presbyterian Church

Toronto.—The Presbyterian Church in Canada distributed 329 carloads of relief in the form of foodstuffs to drought-stricken areas in the west in recent months. It was stated at a meeting of the board of missions here.

In addition to the food supplies, which had been collected in the east and sent to the prairie provinces and the Peace River district, 21,000 pounds of clothing were forwarded.

The number of families helped was 1,050. Mrs. W. H. Fletcher, Toronto, superintending the collection and Mrs. H. R. Horne, Regina, the distribution of articles. The church also provided 14 cases of Christmas gifts to needy families and in one instance cared for a whole community.

Royalty On Alberta Coal

Minister Of Labor Tells House Of A Paradox

Ottawa.—While the Dominion taxpayer is contributing to the Alberta coal mines by way of subventions, the Alberta government is charging a royalty on the coal mined, Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of labor, told the House of Commons.

As a result of Dominion aid Saskatchewan coal had practically displaced competitive foreign coal from the Manitoba market.

"But," said Mr. Gordon, "the paradox is that instead of any control being exercised over coal mines in Alberta about 50 new mines have been opened in the last few years. All mines in the province are under the control and jurisdiction of the provincial government."

Zeppelin Company Formed

Dr. Hugo Eckener President Of New German Line

Berlin.—Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, air minister, announced the foundation of "German-Zeppelin Lines, Ltd., Berlin," with a capital of $2,800,000. The company has as its president of the board of directors, Dr. Hugo Eckener of Graf Zeppelin fame. The chief engineer of the Graf Zeppelin, Ernst Lehmann, was appointed as one of the managers of the company. The purpose of the company was described as for "the erection of new airlines and regular air traffic for passengers, mail and freight with dirigibles."

INTRODUCES BILL

Premier Angus L. Macdonald, of Nova Scotia, who is to introduce a bill in the Nova Scotia Legislature which will set up a permanent civil service for Nova Scotia in line with a recommendation of the Jones Commission of Economic Enquiry.

Fur Farms Prosperous

Alberta Now Has Industry Valued At Million Dollars

Edmonton.—With the number of fur farmers in Alberta more than doubled in the past two years, and with quality of pelts greatly improved from adherence to established scientific methods of raising fur-bearing animals, this type of farming in the province has been raised to the status of a $1,000,000 industry, according to Stanley H. Clark, provincial game commissioner.

There are now 500 licensed fur farmers in the province. Others are turning to this profitable activity in ever-increasing numbers, either as a department of ordinary farm operations or as an exclusive enterprise. Mink, fish, marten, muskrat, racoon and badger are all bred in captivity for commercial purposes as well as the fox.

Gold Production Mounts

Canada's January Output Worth Over Eight Million Dollars

Ottawa.—An increase of more than 15,000 ounces was shown in production of gold in January when the output totalled 249,029 ounces compared with 231,288 ounces in January, 1934, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

Ontario led the provinces with an output of 179,054 ounces, and Quebec with 32,102 ounces while British Columbia was third with 25,726 ounces. Manitoba and Saskatchewan produced 11,498 ounces, Nova Scotia 580 ounces, Alberta 10 ounces and the Yukon had an output of 23 ounces of alluvial gold.

The average price of gold in Canadian funds in January was $34.95 per ounce, valued at this price, the Canadian output was worth $8,703,564.

Object To Jap Goods

Shanghai, China.—"The best-hated nation-lamenting group" is the newest thing in anti-Japanese societies to make its appearance in Shanghai. Members of the society congregate in front of Chinese shops believed to be selling Japanese-made goods. They beat their breasts, sing a wailing chant, and then smash the windows of the shop, taking to their heels as soon as policemen appear.

RAREST STAMP FOR SALE

The rarest stamp in the world—it is insured for $50,000—has just arrived in England from the United States for sale in London. It is the British Guiana one cent stamp, the only one in the world, the property of Mr. Arthur Hinds, who purchased it in Paris in 1922 for 300,000 francs (then worth about $7,000). Here we see the stamp being examined by Mr. Gordon Harmer, famous British stamp expert.

Changes Announced By Finance Minister Rhodes In His Budget Speech

Ottawa.—Wide concessions to British Empire countries and to their mandated territories, drastic reductions in liquor duties that will be passed on to consumers and a slashing of the British preferential rate on woolen yarns were outstanding features of the tariff changes announced to the House of Commons by Finance Minister Edgar N. Rhodes, in his budget speech.

Interpreted generally as a poor man's budget, it increased corporation and income taxes, abolished last year's gold tax but it up by special levies against mining companies and their shareholders and, for the first time in Canada, taxed money and property passed between members of a family with the design of thwarting income and inheritance imposts.

At the same time several new elements in Canadian political history made their appearance.

In the first place, the budget resolutions set forth that the cut in liquor imposts must be passed on to the consumer. If provincial liquor control boards do not conform to this, the government takes the power to re-impose the previous duties.

In the second place, Canada may now, by order-in-council, declare British Empire countries and mandated territories "most favored nations." This sweeping policy would have the effect of completely eliminating the application of the general tariff to all imports from British countries provided such imports were entered into Canada through Canadian ports.

Third, for the first time in tariff history the drawback principle is applied under the British preference. Only one item is affected—No. 1039. This sets forth that cotton velveteen and cotton-back silk-pile may enjoy a drawback of 99 per cent of the duty when these articles are imported "under the British preferential tariff" for use by manufacturers in making certain types of boxes or cases.

A surtax ranging from two to 10 per cent was announced on investment incomes in excess of $5,000 and on all incomes in excess of $14,000. Downward revision on 48 items of customs tariff was announced, with four times revised upward.

Excise tax on spirits is reduced from $7 to $4 per gallon, with appropriate reductions in customs rates on imported spirits.

Gold premium tax is discontinued after May 31, 1935, and depletion allowance on mine income taxes will be reduced to offset revenue reduction.

Solve West's Problems

Will Repay All Debts With Return Of Normal Crops

Ottawa.—The belief that, with co-operation of governments, financial institutions of the east and the church, the problems of the west could be solved, was expressed here by Premier J. G. Gardiner, of Saskatchewan. He added that people of the west would repay a hundred fold every sacrifice which might be made by people of Canadian in assisting to maintain westerners on their land.

Premier Gardiner was addressing a meeting of the University Club of Ottawa. He said that the question today was whether or not the west could come back—if it could again produce the wealth it had in the past. If the west could get back to the crops and prices which prevailed before the depression he believed Saskatchewan could pay off its debt "and have money left over for gasoline and other luxuries."

Arrests In Russia

Moscow.—Soviet authorities have announced the arrest of 1,074 members of the old aristocracy and old moneyed class. Some of them, it was said, will be tried for "activities against the state in behalf of foreign countries," while the rest will be exiled to the eastern reaches of the Soviet Union.

Will Go To England

Pasadena, Calif.—Although still in poor health, Viscount Julian Byng, who suffered a heart attack recently has improved slowly and plans to leave for England about the first of next month. He came here for relief from bronchial trouble.

Election Act

Voters' List Will Be Revised Between May 15 And July 1st

Ottawa.—Some details of the Dominion election and franchise regulations as amended last year were understood to have been discussed at a caucus of Conservative members of the House of Commons and senate with particular reference to their bearing on the forthcoming elections.

A report that a proposal was adopted by caucus to amend the Franchise Act so annual revision of the list would be made, the statute provides must be made between May 15 and July 1 might be waived this year was denied by a government spokesman. No such proposal was adopted nor made, he said.

Under the present act a basic list was prepared during the winter and is now practically ready for distribution. This list will be revised between May 15 and July 1, and each year thereafter on the same dates.

Faces Extradition

Manchester, N.H.—United States Commissioner Charles D. Barnard announced a finding against Captain Freeman Hatfield, whose extradition has been sought by the Canadian government to answer charges of defrauding the Dominion of $71,000 in war reparations claims. Commissioner Barnard said he would recommend Hatfield's extradition.

Advocates Coal Quota

Edmonton.—Adoption of a compulsory coal quota system under which the eastern market would absorb part of the Alberta production was advocated in the legislature by A. Smeaton, Labor member for Lethbridge.

Results Of Hedging Operations In Wheat Are Not Disclosed

Ottawa.—The sceptre-like wheat operations of John I. McFarland, head of the central selling agency for the Canadian wheat pools, remained as mysterious as ever when Hon. Wesley Gordon, minister of labor, said it would be inadvisable to disclose the wins and losses of the government-backed money in the Winnipeg pit.

Early in the day the house gave second reading in the 1935 relief bill, 103-62, passed it through committee stage and added third reading without division.

Western Liberals led the fight to induce the government to disclose results of its hedging operations in the wheat market which have been directed by McFarland for two or three years. Although he has been credited with possessing more wheat than any man in history, no details of McFarland's operations ever have been established and whether he has made or lost money is known only to himself and Premier R. B. Bennett.

"I think," the labor minister told the house, "if any one is in the market, whether short or long, that it would be a most undesirable thing to advise the world and others in the market the exact position of any considerable trader."

The government, Mr. Gordon continued, entered the wheat market to stabilize prices through guarantees to the Canadian Co-Operative Wheat Producers Ltd. He believed that had been accomplished and support for the market would have to be continued. But at the moment it would be unwise to disclose what holds and prices paid.

The labor minister said lump sums will be paid again this year to provinces to finance direct relief with municipalities. The system was inaugurated this year and, although some provinces were dissatisfied with the cash settlements, the minister believed it had worked well.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The great city of London's safety valve for budding orators is Hyde Park. A large open space near the Marble Arch provides free accommodation where all and sundry may air their grievances, rail at the government, propound their theories for solving the problems of the world while those who wish to listen may take their choice of a dozen or more speakers. Sunday, when the working man has time to wander through the park, is a field day for the soap-box orators, and how they orate.

Tower Hill, just outside of the famous old Tower of London, is another popular spot, with a stone parapet all ready there, so that firebrands do not require even a soap-box from which to harangue.

The London police know from experience it is safer to let everyone who wishes spout to his heart's content, on the assumption it is better to allow them to let off steam than to try and bottle it up. If you know the spots to visit, you may have a lot of fun on Sunday. You may hear some thing of value, and you may hear a lot of tommy-rot, but whichever way you may view the opinions of the speakers, you do get fun.

Down at Blairmore, Tim Buck makes up for a dozen or more Hyde Park orators. Tim has lionized himself as the man whom he himself claims was shot at in Kingston penitentiary to try and silence him from spreading his Communistic doctrine. However, of all the alleged shots which were fired, none hit Tim, so he must have a charmed life, but it affords him good publicity which he works to the limit. Blairmore gains unenviable and unprecedented notoriety as the only place in Canada which declares a civic and school holiday in honor of the much shot at revolutionist. On the other hand, if Tim was over in London, he would be just another Sunday morning soap-box orator in Hyde Park or on Tower Hill, for public indifference would quickly dampen his enthusiasm.

During the O.B.U. strike in 1919, James S. Woodsworth, now a member of the House of Commons, was regarded as a dangerous man and a mounted policeman was detailed to stick around the rotunda of whatever hotel he might be staying when out on his visits to various labor centres. Today he is entirely "out-redded" by the Reds, who regard him in the same light as they do all others who do not march under the red flag and sing "The Internationale." How times change! Possibly ten years from now another generation will be relegating Tim Buck to the "has-beens" of the social revolutionists.

Alderman Harry Humble, of Calgary, states in a broadcast that "Alberta Social Credit Plan is just a vicious form of Capitalism." Donald McLean, U.F.A. member for Stoney Plain, states "with all the emphasis I command that I am for Social Credit; 100 per cent." Alberta Labor News (Edmonton) editorially states: "The amazing thing about it is that, not see through the whole phoney business of this phoney cheque and the absurd plan of which it is so apt an illustration."

March 2nd issue of the New Statesman, published in London, commenting on the Douglas plan of Social Credit, states: "We eagerly await results for, despite some careful study of Douglas' works, we have never been able to understand precisely what his practical proposals are."

The Hanna Herald editorially states: "Even Lloyd George, one of the greatest statesmen England ever had, when asked what he thought of Social Credit, replied he was a plain simple man and did not approve of all these new money ideas. If he was in Alberta, Mr. Lloyd George would obviously come under the condemnation of Mr. William Aberhart."

Al. Smith, K.C., of Calgary, thinks Mr. Aberhart is a wonderful personality and an astute politician.

Harvey Murphy and Tim Buck as Social Credit as a step toward Fascism, and state that while it offers $25 a month dividend to the workers, Communism offers the whole world.

Just what the "Bad Egg of Crows' Nest" thinks of it has not yet been revealed.

The greatest political sideshow Alberta has witnessed is engrossing people's minds. It reminds one of the barkers at the circus, inviting you to pay admission to see something startling and the usual disappointment at finding the facts tremendously exaggerated. Many years ago the late R. L. Richardson, a man of powerful physique and keen mentality, and editor of the Winnipeg Tribune, made a bid for farmers' support by steering an independent course. His brilliant oratory at first swept the farmers into almost general admiration and support, but before the election the gift of his fluent speeches and promises had so worn off that his tried and trusted opponent, the late Senator Jack Tarr, was unopposed. There is an object lesson in that recollection which might well apply to the almost fanatical support being accorded today to a doctrine which very few (if any) understand and of which no definite policy has been declared.

Those who are the strongest advocates for sharing wealth are usually those who have none to share. The people who work must of necessity pay through taxes for the relief of the out-of-workers. That is a bed-rock fact which all must face, as cheerfully as possible. No matter if it is by the dole, relief work or social credit, those working or producing must pay through increased taxation for the basic necessities of the unfortunate.

It is fallacious for people to entertain the idea that by some mysterious process it can be done by a mythical "just price," and non-negotiable certificates having no guarantee except faith. The degree of co-operation required to make such plan workable has never been demonstrated on a large scale, for human nature in the mass cannot be regimented, to think and act on faith alone. Mayor Houdes, of Montreal, speaking recently on the present economic system, stated that if you had caterpillars on a tree, you did not immediately chop it down, but tried to remove them.

All the talk of guaranteeing people security ignores the point that such an ideal condition cannot be attained. Two things we are sure of—taxes and death; you're absolutely guaranteed these without any reservations. Neither has any one chosen! Not a cheerful ending to this column, some may say, yet what a nice prospect to envision, with a golden harp and a crown of glory; nothing to worry about and everything found—perfect happiness!

So, hitch your thoughts to the stars, but for practical purposes keep your feet on the ground. I'll next week's whirligig—"Au Revoir" and good luck to The Journal readers, at home and in places further afield, who regard Coleman as a good place in which to live, where the sunshine is brighter than anywhere else and the water is as pure as an angel's tear.

WHAT WILL THE VOTERS SAY?

(Blairmore Enterprise)
The Albertan has never—not at least in any normal times—been opposed to the indemnity of aldermen and such who give up their time and large parts of their business in the public service. But it is hard to be unsympathetic with the indignation of The Blairmore Enterprise, published at Blairmore, where their comic opera councillors, with Moscow as their spiritual home and Lenin as their idol, have decided to pay themselves two dollars a council meeting and three dollars additional to the mayor for every tour of inspection he makes of local public works.

Financially, Blairmore has been off again and on again for a number of years; or as The Enterprise puts it, "There isn't a town on the map that has been howling for more assistance from the governments." Therefore the appearance of a notice on the Blairmore post office notice board has caused more than a ripple by notifying the taxpayers that a by-law is to be voted on by proprietary ratepayers on March 25th to provide for the payment of the mayor and councillors

"ANNIE Doesn't Live Here Any More"

Last Thursday, completing the press run of the weekly edition of The Journal, the chorus came to mind, for shortly after "Annie" had been torn to pieces, ruthlessly and without hardly a sigh, except it was one of relief at seeing her scattered remains pitched into crates and boxes, and packed off to cold storage to await final decision as to her disposal.

We had nursed "Annie" for a number of years, and before we encountered her whims and fancies, others must have done the same, though they had treated her badly. Several of her teeth were missing, she had too much play in the joints, and you never knew how she would act, so capricious was she.

As to her age, that is doubtful, though on the side there was something resembling a birth certificate which read: "Patented 1904," and a later amendment, "Patented 1907." Evidently "Annie" must have been a later edition of an older sister, with some improvements.

Fearing that some day "she" would blow up completely, and disappoint the vast and growing army of Journal readers, it was decided some considerable time ago that her days were numbered, awaiting the opportune time to consign her to the limbo of forgotten things.

So, while she was laboring on Thursday afternoon turning out her last edition, five or six tons of new machinery were being carted over from a C. P. R. box car while Nemesis was waiting to give her the axe. In less than an hour she had been stripped, rollers, gear wheels and base had been shifted out, and on Friday morning in her place began the erection of a modern press which for speed puts "Annie's" performances, even in her palmiest days, to shame.

Now we have a fair guarantee of knowing that when we start the wheels rumbling for the weekly edition, we will not be delayed by those peculiar quirks which invariably developed on press day. We have sweated, groaned, cursed, hopped over to the Grand Union to cool off many a time when "Annie" was in a tantrum, but managed somehow to get the edition off the press, after which we would go home, wondering how much longer we were to endure such agony and suspense.

Now the staff feel like the kid with a new toy; we want to run off 5,000 copies every week just to show what we can do, with red streamers across the pages and other evidences of progress. Posters with two, three or more colors, as variegated as the rainbow, will now be possible and we will not feel quite so used up at the end of press day as when "Annie" caused us weekly heart-burnings and made the air blue with detectable language.

"Annie doesn't live here any more," and darned good riddance to her. Who could shed tears over her when she had led us one heck of a life, caused us to work many an hour of overtime to make up for her delinquencies, and made us wish at times we were anything else but a publisher and printer?

The erection of the press was in charge of Mr. George Webster, of Toronto Type Foundry Co., Limited, the oldest company in Canada supplying printing machinery to Canadian newspapers in cities and towns from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

British-Israel Truths Explained by Colonel Wright of Vancouver

Gave Up Church But Later Turned to God When Bible Truths Revealed Through British-
Israelism

Colonel Wright of Vancouver, an ardent and stalwart exponent of British-Israelism, gave a forceful address in St. Paul's United church on March 22, under the auspices of the local association. He referred to his early life as an Anglican church member in Toronto, and of difficulties in understanding much of the Bible. Despite his doubts, he continued attending church, and taught a class of boys until he found he was unable to answer questions they would ask on Biblical history, so gave up church completely.

Going over to the war, he came back without any faith in God. His son attended the first meeting held in Toronto by Dr. Gore, prominent British-Israelite, when 90 people were considered a crowd. Though his son tried to interest him, he jokingly replied that he was not a Jew, and did not think he resembled one. But later he was led to studying British-Israel truths, and came to the conclusion that if you do not use your brain it will just bump uselessly around in its cavity like a dried pea in a pod. Man nowadays could not foretell a week ahead what would happen to the world's history, yet the prophets centuries ago foretold the things which are now happening. Today we are in as fierce an economic war as we were in a physical war in 1914-1918. We must study Bible truths to grasp the meaning of ancient prophecies revealed in the Bible. He instanced the decline of monarchies as foretold by the prophets, and stated that only in countries of British-Israel descent are kings reigning.

He commented on the fact that many ministers today are not even Christian in their pulpit teachings, and deny the foundation of the Christian faith by stating Christ was not of Divine birth. British-Israel teachings were carrying on for the salvation of the world.

If people would observe God's laws the world would be a grand place in which to live. Instead, man-made laws upon laws had been made, which no house in Coleman was large enough to hold—not even two houses, large as they might be.

PETROLEUM

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Petroleum consists chiefly of a mixture of compounds known as hydrocarbons. It is found in large quantities in California, in Oklahoma, in Russia, Mexico, the Dutch East Indies, Galicia, Persia, and Rumania. In 1925 the world's production of crude petroleum was about 1,000,000,000 barrels.

Crude oil is trapped in what the geologist calls an anticline, which is a sort of inverted bowl of clay or shale, and is seached by drilling wells. The first oil well in America was dug by Colonel Drake at Titusville, Pennsylvania, in 1859.

Russian petroleum is found in and around Baku, near the Caspian Sea. History tells us that as far back as 600 B.C. "the eternal fire of Baku" attracted the fire-worshippers.

Petroleum is separated into various products by a process known as fractional distillation. The compounds which make up petroleum boil at different temperatures, and hence they can be separated by distillation. One fraction comes off as a vapour at a certain temperature, and the next at a higher temperature, and so on. When most of this fraction has been boiled off the temperature is increased, and another receiver is placed in the still to collect this fraction of the petroleum.

Petroleum contains gases in solution, such as methane (marsh gas) and ethane. When the crude oil is heated gently these gases are driven to the top and are collected in a separate tank. As the temperature is slowly increased liquids which are known as naphthas come off as vapours, and are condensed by cooling to liquids again. The scientist finds that these liquids consist chiefly of pentane and hexane. This fraction of the petroleum is used as a solvent in the rubber and varnish industries. The next fraction is gasoline, which is used as an extremely motor fuel and as a solvent. Kerosene (coal-oil) comes off next and is used as an illuminant and a fuel. After the kerosene is distilled off, lubricating oils and paraffin are obtained. The tar-like material which is left in the still is used as artificial asphalt, or as a source of a light, porous coke.

How Lessons Are Learned

Valuable Experience Is Gained Through Mistakes We Make

There is something to be said for the fool who steps in where angels fear to tread. At least he learns a lesson which will make him less of a fool than he was before. The man who never makes a mistake never makes anything. It is far better to appear ridiculous a few times and thereby gain valuable experience, than it is to hide all our lives behind a false modesty, and while maintaining an outward appearance of wisdom, remain fools to our death. Probably Blake had this thought in mind when he wrote: "If the fool would persist in his folly he would become wise."—O. T. Miller.

Need Of Amicable Arrangements Between Masters And Men

Acceptance of the workers' right to live contentedly and participate in their part of the direction of industry was set forth by one of the foremost figures in Canada's mineral industry as tantamount to preservation of existing social and industrial fabrics.

Selwyn Gwilym Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., Trail, B.C., invited 300 members of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy to study the "co-operative committee" system his company has substituted for trade unionism.

Bad For Human Nature

If People Feel No Responsibility For Troubles Of Others

Time was when the misfortune of a neighbor down the street a bit was a matter of concern to the household. On baking morning an extra loaf of bread or an extra pie would be cooked and sent round to the home where the head of the house was laid off or the mother was sick, with kindly hopes that things would be better soon. If things were serious, it was not looked upon as anything extraordinary for some one, after a day's work, to volunteer to spend the night sitting up and tending to the invalid neighbor. To the trained district worker all this sort of thing may seem to be a desperately amateur bungling way of dealing with a crisis but no one dreamed of thinking that a bowl of soup sent in to the sick family was to be classed a "relief."

Of course the extraordinary conditions of the last few years have forced some form of organized assistance upon the community, but it would be a bad thing for human nature if the sense of private responsibility for the troubles that lie next door to us were smothered under the formalities of organized public assistance. Should this expression of human nature be crushed out, the loss to humanity in general would be incalculable. — Fort William Times.

Institute stressed the need of amicable arrangements between employers and employees to put industry and commerce on a sound basis.

Mr. Blaylock's address featured the closing day of the institute's three-day meeting in Winnipeg. Mr. Blaylock was presented a plaudits medal for his "outstanding contribution" to the mineral industry.

Employers did not monopolize the brains of the country but the average brain of the artisan was "fully equal, if not superior, to the average of the rest of the world." Industry and every phase of life would function more fairly and make better progress if the brains of both classes were pooled in the friendliest possible co-operation—"and the best way I know of accomplishing this is through co-operative committees."

Mr. Blaylock outlined the co-operative plan in effect at the Trail, B.C., smelter.

YOUR HANDWRITING REVEALS YOUR CHARACTER!

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: This series of articles on Character from Handwriting continues to attract wide interest and many readers are taking advantage of the author's offer to get a personal character delineation. You still have an opportunity of getting yours.)

I have a letter from a married woman who asks my advice on a problem that is cropping up quite often nowadays. Here is what she says: "I am a married woman in my middle thirties, and have two young children. My husband lost his position about a year ago, and has not been able to get new employment. Although we had some money saved at that rate, for us to get along on. However, for some time, my husband and myself have not been working and I am extremely broke on the slightest pretext, and I am seriously wondering whether to let him, and the children, go on their own. I don't really see why I should be the one to work and keep the home going, while my husband idles. What do you suggest?"

I haven't given the letter in full, but merely the salient points. Now, turning to the two special points of handwriting, I find firstly that the writing of the lady who wrote to me, shows that she is very intelligent. She even to the point of being selfish. She sees only her own point of view. She is shrewd, a quick thinker, and is extremely intelligent. But that factor of "self" stands out like a flagpole, and affects every line of her handwriting. She simply cannot think of anyone other than herself. On the other hand, her husband's writing shows that he is not so much affected by his own point of view, and is straightforward, honest, loyal and is capable of getting things done. He is not particularly intellectual, but steady.

It seems to me, in the first place, that the husband has been caused by a lack of appreciation on the wife's part for her husband's inability to get work. This is a fortunate, and my correspondent is taking a rather one-sided point of view, with which I cannot have much sympathy. He is a top-notch worker, and many men, similar to the writer's husband, are unable to obtain work, through no fault of their own. He like many others, is the victim of circumstances entirely beyond his control.

My advice to her is to take the work, and continue living with her husband and family, at the same time, modifying her outlook as regards her husband. She would find, in all probability, that a more kind and sympathetic attitude on his part, would lead to his obtaining work, and thus, greater effort to obtain work of some kind.

The husband, I suggest that, if it is impossible to get anything in his own line of work, at least he try something, even a selling or canvassing job. Anything to keep himself busy, and help to retain his self-respect and esteem.

I have given you rather unusual prominence to this letter this week, because I find that this problem is appearing quite often, and it would certainly seem that there are some wives who are content to be cheerful and friendly when things are going straight, but immediately disaster hits the home, in the shape of unemployment, as a rule through no fault of the husband, then they make their husband's lives unhappy through ill-timed and unfair criticism.

An happy to add that there are by far the majority of women who are not like this, but in those cases where it is so, a good deal of unhappiness and trouble could be saved by mutual understanding of the difficulties to be contended with.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 31
LESSONS FROM THE LETTERS OF PETER

Golden Text: Grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. II. Peter 3:18.

Lesson: I. Peter 5:6-11; II. Peter 3:14-18.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 55:6-13.

Explanations And Comments

Through Antagonisms to Perfecting. I. Peter 5:6-11. Humble yourselves under the strong hand of God then, so that when it is time, he may raise you; let all your anxieties fall upon him, for his interest is in you (Moffatt's translation). The last clause in the Greek reads literally, "because he has you in his heart." He is of three types—a serpent, it that you are not intoxicated, drugged into any perilous stupor. Keep your head clear, and be collected. Now the apostle is writing to men and women who are professing the followers of Jesus Christ; and I think there are two points in the religious life which have their issue in moral stupor. We can lose our senses in excitement, and we can lose them in sleep. There are perils in sensationalism, and there are perils in an encroaching drowsiness. There is an excessive emotionalism which is the peril of all revivals. And there is the moral stupor which is the issue of a growing indifference.

Your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour. "I think there is something very suggestive in the figures employed by the Bible to describe the approaches of the powers of evil and night. The devil has a fairly extensive wardrobe, but his common and more familiar guises are of three types—a serpent, an angel of light, and a roaring lion. It is in one or the other of these three shapes that the forces of sin most frequently assail us. They come in the guise of the serpent. They beguile our senses. They pervert our judgment. They enchant our imaginations. We are fascinated, bewitched, paralyzed by the influence of some illicit and unclean spell. He comes also in the guise of an angel of light! He comes in the guise of some refinement; he would convert a deep devotion into a plausibility; and he would transform a hallowed trust into a self-righteous presumption. And the devil also comes as a roaring lion! When the apostle wrote this letter the lion was about; Nero was at work; the Christians were being hunted unto death, in the vain attempt at stamping out their faith and devotion to the Man of Nazareth, their Saviour and their Lord." (J. M. Jewett).

Neither Of Them Won

Cat And Snake Fought Duel And Both Died

A large cat and a six-foot snake fought a terrific duel on a farm at Leeton, New South Wales—and they both lost. Suddenly coming across the snake, the cat circled round it warily and then slashed at it with its claws.

The pair rolled in the grass, the cat clawing, spitting and biting. After fighting desperately for some minutes, the snake relaxed its pressure. It was dead. The cat staggered away a few yards and then collapsed. In a few minutes it had died, too.

Free Entry Until November

Poultry and dairy products from Canada, under the terms of the Ottawa agreements, are given unrestricted free entry into the United Kingdom until November 1935, after which the British government in consultation with the Dominion governments concerned has the right to bring these products within a system for regulating supplies from all sources.

A new "Plane Testment" monoplane, equipped with an improved radio compass, soared out twice over the Pacific ocean at Oakland, Cal., testing the equipment which the U.S. department of commerce officials said may be used as the "keystone" of a system of air navigation over water.

Making Trains Noisier

England's Pneumatic Railcar Comes Very Near Success

Noisy travel by train is the latest novelty in the campaign for the abatement of unnecessary noise, and people who watched a certain train slide out of Euston station, London, one day recently might almost have imagined it a phantom passenger carrier. It was the quietest train that ever ran on a British railway—so quiet that permanent-way workers did not hear it until the engine whistled them out of the way. Folks on wayside stations merely heard a swirl of air as it passed.

The train was the new Coventry Pneumatic Railcar on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, running on pneumatic tires fitted to its 16 wheels. Noise was banished except for the rush of the wind and the faint hum of the 12-cylinder, petrol engine.

Railways for years have been trying to find a light and economical unit for branch lines and for intermediate services in populous districts. They have been fighting weight and noise. This new railcar looks like the nearest approach to success.

New Style Torpedo

Invention Of Italian Scientists Does Not Warn Of Approach

A torpedo which gives its victims not even the present momentary warning of its approach is to be added to the submarine armory of the next war. Two Italian scientists have produced a torpedo which leaves no track. The motive power is ammonia gas, which dissolves instantly in water. Present day torpedoes, driven by compressed air, leave a tell-tale track of air bubbles. These can be sighted at a distance and the victim is thus given a slight chance of manoeuvring out of danger.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now, returns to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur ranch. Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane. The location of his gold discovery, Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin accuses Kane of shooting on Peyotl Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch. Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane. The location of his gold discovery, Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

According to any doctor you ask, the only safe way is never to give your child a remedy you don't know all about, without asking him first.

the court-house door. Dustin's finger crooked in the shadows and another figure joined him; the loose, shambling shape of Peyotl Gregg.

"See that man, Peyotl!" Dustin pointed to Stone. "That man has come in to meet the man Gerald Keene, who comes on the night train. The man will call himself Keene, but his right name's Kane. You see, the old man found a gold mine and it was on the Hour-Glass land. This nephew wants to find him. If he finds him . . . you'll hang. Don't forget that. I'll be at the hotel when you're ready to go back to the Broken Spur."

Peyotl gave him one frenzied glance and his right hand sought his coat pocket. Dustin gave a little gasp. The man was half-crazed with fright and murderous intent. Dustin grabbed him by the arm. A little white foam lay in the corners of Peyotl's mouth and his eyes glared with a light there was no mistaking. After a dozen of those infernal cigarettes Peyotl was ready to kill and Dustin knew it.

"Don't you take a chance," he muttered. "Don't put anything at the station or in public where people can see you. Wait! You'll be sure to get a chance in the dark if you wait. I'd tell 'em if I were you and choose some dark place. Of course I don't know what you're plannin' . . . You're a damned fool, Peyotl."

He sauntered off in the dusk and Peyotl, half walking, half reeling, headed for the little station.

Stone had already picked up Carr and Crewe and was waiting at the car when the train came in with a sheet of flying sparks from the hard-set brakes. Stone himself was the first to leap to the steps of the Pullman and was almost knocked off his feet by the rush of a man who did not wait for the train to stop.

"Duro . . . Duro Stone, by all the gods!" . . . A great hand smote Stone on the shoulder, almost knocking him over. "Who's with you? We must get together. . . ."

"Wait a bit . . ." Stone muttered behind his teeth. "Here's your present partner . . . We'll have to get together as soon as we can. I've got a lot to tell you. We need two heads here."

The crowd prevented any exchange of confidences and then Crewe came up with old Joe Carr.

"Well, Carr," Stone grabbed Joe by the arm—"you wanted to meet me?"

A hand thrust forward and old Carr seized it. This was Gerald Keene, the nephew of his old-time partner, Gerald Keene, the only man who could help him in his hour of trouble. He shook that hand as one might shake at a life-preserver flung in roaring seas.

"If you're Gerald Keene," he said, "you don't know how damned glad I am to see you. We've got a lot to talk over this very night."

"How about some grub, sir, first of all?"

"Fine. And after that we'll have a few drinks at the Silver Dollar and then home to the Hour-Glass."

Those last words meant that they were standing among the freight. He was satisfied now. The party would go to the Silver Dollar and that would give him his chance. He slunk off up the street and busied himself in the Mexican quarter of the town while Stone headed with his party for the hotel.

That dinner with his long delays and frequent drinks that came slowly from the bar, kept them till nearly ten o'clock and old Joe Carr fought his way from the table in spite of Crewe. His manager saw signs of what was coming and wanted to avoid it. Carr insisted.

"Of course Keene wants to see the sights," he clamored. "I haven't been in town for a year. I'm a wolf and this is my night to howl. Hell, man! Come on. No one's going to get drunk. I just want to play my old favorite 'Cripple Creek' once more. Let's get down to the Silver Dollar. They have a big lottery there at eleven."

They headed for the Silver Dollar.

Peyotl Gregg had friends in Seco of whom Sam Dustin knew nothing. For five years he had supposed that he was the sole source of Peyotl's drug supply but that was because Peyotl had successfully smuggled his store into the Broken Spur unknown.

If Dustin had known, it would have gone hard with Peyotl. The moment he left Dustin, Peyotl sought out one of those friends. . . .

CHILDREN'S COLDS

ENDED SOONER without dosing

PROVED BY 2 GENERATIONS

In Mendez's family, Peyotl took advantage of stock. Mendez was absent but Peyotl knew where to find what he wanted. From a hole in the trodden clay-floor he extracted an old cigar-box from which he took a red-and-green package of those ill-favored cigarettes. The first one sat down to think. The first puff stimulated him; the next gave exhilaration. Dustin was a good friend who had given him excellent advice and the future seemed rosy and happy. He passed rapidly from the first stage of half-lit despair to the next, in which he saw complete fulfillment of his own desire. When he had smoked three cigarettes on an empty stomach he knew suddenly that he faced a golden future . . . if only this man Gerald Kane . . . or Keene . . . could be removed.

Who was this stranger that he should sound a man to the gallows? "By God . . ." The home-made oath satisfied him. . . . He flung the cigarette to the floor, stamped out the spark, felt in his pockets and laid their contents before him . . . the stubby little Derringer pistol and three cartridges flitted, he thought unseeing, from Dustin's desk; a knife, a box of matches and a huge yellow-and-green bandana neckerchief that stunk and reeked of the peyotl that he had been smoking. He very carefully loaded both barrels of the pistol, snapped it shut, wrapped it in the bandana neckerchief and thrust it into his coat-pocket on the right side.

"This stranger must be removed! If he remained in Seco, his search for old man Kane, his uncle, would disclose the fact that he, Peyotl, had killed him. The result was plain. He had heard those men say that they were going to the Silver Dollar and of all places, the Silver Dollar was the most satisfactory for the carrying out of his plans. Of course he could not go brazenly into the bar and shoot down this man Gerald Kane. That was not necessary. Some subterfuge must be devised. He felt in his pocket to assure himself that the bandana lay ready-to-hand and moved down Seco's main street toward the lights of the Silver Dollar.

He was too wise to enter that brightly lighted room where a dozen men knew him. From the back door that gave on the littered yard he studied the place.

The bar was crowded with men from the Broken Spur, the Cross Keys and with a dozen "Dry-farmers" in town for a night off. The roulette table and the chuck-a-luck stand were doing a healthy business and May Wilson keeping cases at the bar table had her hands full. As Peyotl stared in through the party he open back door, he realized that the setting was perfect. All he needed was the opportunity.

The slatted front door slammed suddenly open and Peyotl shrank back into the dark as Carr and his party flung into the room.

Another Tradition Upset

Earth Ebbs And Flows Like Tides Of The Sea

A favorite occupation of physical scientists is the careful upsetting of history, fables, or common belief by the insertion of facts which prove or explain how things really happened.

From time immemorial the good dirt regions of earth have been considered static. Even the Romans, famed instigators of tall stories, never thought of calling the ground anything but terra firma. Now, Dr. Harlan Stetson, Harvard astrophysicist, tells us that not only are we walking on a thin upper "crust" of a similar amount, all of which is not even this crust craves to and fro like the tides of the sea.

Everyone knows the sea has its ebbs and flows, but no one guessed that land areas could be affected like this until Dr. Stetson said so. With super-accurate clocks or chronometers, and more careful squinting at the stars, he corrected those "clocks" to the split second and found that Europe and America drift apart as much as sixty-three feet twice daily and come together again by a similar amount. All of which means another time worn tradition is ready for the discard.

But for all the research, when Popeye and Barnacle Bill step ashore with their curious "sealegs" they can't get away with any tales about how difficult it is to get used to the billowing waves of land tides after a peaceful jaunt at sea. Nor is sixty-three feet enough of a variation to excuse European or American fluctuations of policy when attempts are made to agree on matters of trade, finance and world peace.—Christian Science Monitor.

A Real Weather Prophet

Story About Beetle In Alberta Is No Myth

Not all stories about insects as weather forecasters can be dismissed as myths. Alberta has an insect that is a real weather prophet. It is the beetle, of the genus Apodius, which emerges suddenly in the spring and autumn in countless thousands. A thorough study of the weather records fail to give any reason why the beetles should fly when they do, says H. L. Seamans of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Lethbridge, but there is a distinct and valuable connection between the beetle flights and the weather that follows. The first flight in the spring is usually the forerunner of a cold spell with snow, but this cold period is the last before spring growing conditions arrive.

The Pony Express

Was Started In United States 75 Years Ago

Just seventy-five years ago the Pony Express was started to carry mails in the United States. It started. The most famous of these services operated between San Francisco and New York. There were 80 of the finest horsemen and 400 hardy mustangs in the service. They worked in relays of 80 to 90 miles each, and covered the transcontinental journey in nine days.

Strange Facts About Clothes

Origin of Many Fashions We Take For Granted

Why does a tailor place a man's coat buttons on the right side? Because this fashion enabled him more readily to get at his dagger. Why are stockings adorned with "clocks"? Because they were originally put in to hide the gusset seams, when only cloth stockings were worn, and were later retained because they were considered ornamental. Why are men's hats surrounded by a useless ribbon? Because 4,000 years ago women bound a loose fabric about their heads by means of a fillet. Why do husars and grenadiers wear bearskins? Because they borrowed the original head-dress of Hungarian mercenaries in the British Army. This was a cloth cap edged with fur. Regimental jealousy kept about inches to this narrow adornment until the cap became all fur except its crown! Why does a man's morning coat bear two useless buttons above the tails? Because coats used to be almost like skirts, which need, of buttoning, a go and sh and ad ad buttoning up to keep them out of the mud. Why does a barrister wear a black gown? Because, when Queen Anne died all the barristers went into mourning—and Queen Anne is still dead!

State Witnesses In Hauptmann Trial Ask Big Pay

U.S. Attorney-General David T. Wilentz said the fees of some of the handwriting experts and others who testified for the state at Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial were so high they would not be paid until they are Seven of the eight handwriting experts, who swore that Hauptmann wrote the Lindbergh notes, submitted bills, totalling $46,592. The eighth, Dr. Wilmer Souder, United States government expert, of Washington, put in only a bill of $69.15 to cover his expenses.

Highest of all was Albert S. Osborn, dean of the experts, who billed the state for $12,000 for his services. His son, Albert D. Osborn, asked $9,555.

Lost In A Bag Of Relief Foodstuffs, Watch Will Go Back To Ontario

Lost in a bag of relief foodstuffs forwarded in a carload to Saskatchewan last fall, a wrist watch belonging to Mrs. Oscar Coleman, Delta, will be returned to her.

The watch was found by a relief recipient at Lussland, Sask. Mrs. Coleman missed the watch after the bag was forwarded and word was sent to Saskatchewan where a newspaper advertisement led to recovery of the timepiece.

Little Helps For This Week

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

Proverbs 16:32.

Purge from our hearts and

Of wrath, and pride, and care;

Send Thine own holy calm upon

And bid it settle there.

Let this truth be present to thee in the excitement of anger—that to be moved by passion is not manly, but that mildness and gentleness, as they are more agreeable to human nature, so also are they more manly. For in the same degree in which a man's mind is nearer to freedom from all passion, in the same degree also it is nearer to strength.

It is no greater matter to associate with the good and gentle, for this is naturally pleasing to all, and everyone enjoys peace and loveth those best who agree with him. But to be able to live peacefully with hard and perverse persons, or with the disorderly, or with such as go contrary to us, is a great grace, and a most commendable manly thing.

On Sunday evening during the high wind and blizzard which swept from the west, the electric light system in the Pass towns played hide and seek, interrupting radio programs and causing a hunt for candles and lamps. The inconvenience was of short duration.

Mrs. R. P. Borden, district commissioner of the Girl Guides, requests The Journal to express her thanks for the splendid co-operation given in support of the benefit hockey match, and to Mr. George Jenkins for the use of the rink. The Jamboree fund benefited to the amount of about $70.00.

Acquaint the buying public of Coleman and district with attractive advertising messages through The Journal, the paper which goes into the homes and is read by the entire family. The merchant who advertises in The Journal is setting the best possible example in promoting local business in inviting people to buy from local stores.

Before leaving Coleman, O. E. S. Whiteside is offering for sale all his furniture, house furnishings, equipment and belongings, including pictures, some books, technical and otherwise, one Buick Automobile with fitted trunk, and many other articles too numerous to mention. Buy from Journal advertisers, for they help to make a bigger and better Coleman and support the publisher in the effort to publish a weekly, newspaper worthy of the town. Also another good reason you should buy from them—they have faith in the products they sell and are leaders in their respective lines. Their ads. in The Journal are a personal invitation to shop at their stores.

Constable Foster, R.C.M.P., stated in connection with the tragic death of Thos. D. Roche, killed on the railroad near Crows' Nest, that evidence of respect from many old-timers was shown in the large number of messages and enquiries received. Those who carried him to his resting place in Blaimore cemetery on March 20th were acquaintances of long years standing.

The curling club finished a successful season last week when contending rinks for the league championship finished their season's schedule. D'Appolonia won the McGillivray Cup, first prize, with eighteen wins, being one up on Yates, who won the Merchants' Cup, as second prizes. Destabul was third in won the Morrison Cup and Angel won the consolation in fourth place. The semi-annual meeting will be held shortly to present the prizes.

The best way to attract public attention to concerts, dances and other events soliciting public patronage is by having properly printed posters or attractive display advertisements in this great family journal, read by all the worthwhile people who take it home for the whole family to read, mark, learn and inwardly digest—and finally use it to cover the pantry shelves, unless they send it away to distant friends or relatives.

The first robin of the season has already been seen and duly recorded in The Journal. Surely it is time for someone over in West Coleman to report the arrival of the first bluebird. Spring is here! How about a few "Odes to Spring"? Another sure sign of spring is Bock Beer, which has outtrilled sulphur and molasses. "Black or white?" questions the dispenser of liquid refreshment, with a quizzical smile, as if he thinks you need a spring tonic.

Tim Buck addressed a meeting in the Knights of Pythias hall on Sunday evening, after having spent the day at Michener. His appearance in Coleman was delayed for about two hours by the car conveying him stalling near Crows' Nest lake, a Greyhound bus returning dead head bringing him in. His address was along the same line as that given in Blaimore, Lethbridge and other places on his speaking tour. Tim is not greeted with the same enthusiasm as in Blaimore, where a red council and school board fall down and worship him, and compel the school principal and teachers to line up and pay homage to the propagandist for a Soviet Canada.

"A man's home is his castle," maybe! When said man has a wife and four daughters to back up said wife, he is inclined to doubt it is his castle. He mustn't put his pipe here or his papers there; he mustn't sit sprawled out in an easy chair with his feet on another; he mustn't be home late to meals, no matter how urgent the business may be down town; in fact life consists of a lot of "you mustn't do this" and "you mustn't do that," and the only comfort or retaliation he may enjoy is taking it out on the dog and the cat and chasing them out of doors every night for their regular news gathering trips to nearby telephone poles. "Have you got four daughters?" people ask, who don't know us very well, apparently surprised to see us looking so carefree under the trial of four of the female species renowned for having the last word on everything under the sun. Since we scrapped "Annie" from the office staff, there is one trial less, but there are still a few more rivers to cross. But a more glorious day is dawning, and the new press is working fine, so maybe we'll be home at more regular hours.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday—the 4th in Lent—the service will be as follows; 12:30 p. m. Sunday school. 7 p. m. Evensong and sermon.

Thirteen Years of Progress

On the third of February, 1922, the first three-element vacuum tube made in Canada was manufactured in the Montreal Plant of the Northern Electric Company, Limited. This was a repeater tube for telephone use, and was followed in May by the "Penalt", the radio receiving tube known from coast to coast, and beyond, as the "Necromantic Bottle of the Air". Today one hundred and forty standardized types of radio vacuum tubes are manufactured in Canada, and mention those used for telephone communication and other purposes. Above, the peanut tube is shown beside a rule for comparison. The bottom picture shows H. A. Robinson, Northern Electric Radio Engineer, showing to a fair visitor one of the new 35,000 watt water cooled transmitting tubes used in Canada's newest and most powerful Broadcasting Station CKY in Winnipeg. This tube equals the combined output of more than 12,000,000 peanut tubes; which serves to illustrate the gigantic steps which science has made in the past thirteen years.
